against me, and would always finish by saying i French: Prnnitr Consul, otcz voun done cela de vc

13th. The terrible Monitcur that has ruined reputations is constantly useful and favourab alone. Reasonable men, men of real talent, will tory from the oflicial documents; but these doeu full of nu% and it is they I invoke and stand by IHth. An inconceivable battle! An unheard < rence of fatal events! Grouchy —- Ney — d'Er it nothing worse than misfortune? Ah, unhapp Extraordinary (Campaign in whieh in less than thrre times saw success slip out of my hands! 1 i*rcn for the desertion of a traitor I would have ei oiiemy at the hegiwiing of the campaign. I \v crtishe<l tliem ut Lii^ny hud my left done its du1 I would have crushed them at Wate.vloo had nrj fiiilcil me.

«tst. They will always fear me! Pitt told tl there is no safety for you with a man who earri invasion in his head. In any ease, what is thei That I should make war ? I am too old. That I after tflory ? I am K°W(1 with it» I turned it int<

Jut i/ I^th. A qncxta earn, o in quwto luogo